"SPLENDID" SAYS HALSEY AT REVIEW AT SCHOFIELD

British Visitors Will Be Good
Hawaii Boosters in Other Parts

Four thousand men in olive drab-foot, horse and wagon soldiers—sawed by the reviewing point at Schofield Barracks this morning, and gave Captain Lionel Halsey of the New Zealand and a score of his officers, an opportunity to see Uncle Sam's soldiers ready for business. It was a business-like affair, this review, shy on ceremony and the pomp of glittering uniforms, but very long on efficiency. The chiding red dust of the Lelihe plain is hardly appropriate for full dress ceremonies, but it fits in very well with infantry at the double, and cavalry and artillery at a gallop, with men and horses, rifles and guns, ready for action.

"Splendid," said Captain Halsey, after the last field gun had thundered by, and the last troop of cavalry had passed the reviewing stand. "I never saw a more efficient looking lot of soldiers anywhere. They are a fine lot of men, and their every move shows that they know their business. I consider it a great honor to have been able to witness this review, and the officers of the New Zealand will carry this morning away with them as a very pleasant memory."

Captain Halsey warmly complimented Colonel G. K. McGunagle, post commander and reviewing officer, on the appearance of his command, and showed by his keen appreciation and understanding of things military that he is well posted in land as well as sea defense.

The New Zealand commander and his officers were taken to Schofield Barracks by motor, officers of the Hawaiian Department furnishing the transportation and acting as their own chauffeurs, so that each machine was a personally conducted "seeing Gahn" party. The drive to and from the big army post was most interesting to the British naval officers, who wanted to know the why and wherefore of the sugar and pineapple businesses, and sought information on many other points. When the New Zealand steamed away, the great majority of the officers and enlisted men aboard will be traveling publicity agents of Hawaii, and this morning's jaunt to the center of the island helped to furnish some interesting material for them.

The party left the Alakea slip at 8 o'clock, and reached Schofield at about 9:30, only two of the machines having come to grief on the way out, tire trouble being the cause of these delays. Captain Halsey was a passenger in General Funston's car, and the other officers were apportioned so that mechanics could shop with mechanics, and coast artillerymen hob-nob with the men who handle the big guns aboard ship.

At 9:35 Colonel L. W. V. Kennon, 46th Infantry, who commanded the column, passed the reviewing point, and swung out to take his place beside Colonel McGunagle, and the post adjutant and quartermaster, Captains Burnett and O'Leary.

The 1st Infantry, 25th Infantry, 1st field artillery and 4th cavalry passed in review in the order named and when the last organization marched by, it was exactly 10 o'clock, 22 minutes having been consumed by the column in passing.

As the infantry commands passed the reviewing officer broke into the double, and proceeded to their respective cantonments, but the horse and wagon soldiers re-formed, and passed twice again in review at an increased gait, once at the trot and once at the gallop. There were no accidents to mar the morning, although at times it seemed as though the excited artillery horses would carry gun and riders on a wild chase across country. The commands were splendidly handled, however, and even the most fractious of the teams and mounts failed to break up the alignment of troop and section.

The review was witnessed by practically the entire civilian population of the garrison, and by a number of Honoluluans who motored out from town. Every point of vantage on the gentle slope which overlooks the maneuver ground was pre-empted early in the morning, and motor cars were lined three deep behind the reviewing point.

It was a surprise to Captain Halsey and his officers to learn that 30 per

SMIDDY'S JOB REMAINS BONE OF CONTENTION

To ascertain who has the right to appoint the successor of Road Supervisor J. J. Smiddy, whose resignation takes effect the last of this month, Mayor Joseph P. Fern called upon Deputy City and County Attorney Weaver yesterday afternoon for a legal opinion on the point. While the opinion is being prepared, the mayor states he will take no action in determining upon a successor of Smiddy.

A dispute over what official has the authority to appoint the successor of the road supervisor arose shortly after the resignation of Smiddy was handed in, and the supervisors now stand divided on the question, some contending that the power lies in the city and county engineer, while the others hold that Mayor Fern has the right to make the appointment.

To end the dispute, Mayor Fern yesterday called for an opinion from Attorney Weaver, which will be given him in writing within a few days, he says.

Had it not been for the law passed by the last session of the legislature restoring the appointive powers of the city's chief executive, the present question would be easy to answer, and would undoubtedly have been answered in favor of the city and county engineer, who has been vested, by an ordinance, with the authority to name his assistants.

But now with the new statute on the books, the mayor by virtue of it having the power to name persons to fill all appointive offices, to be approved by the board of supervisors, the question had been raised of whether the act nullifies the ordinance, or whether the rights under the ordinance do not come within the purview of the statute.

In the latter case, the city and county engineer would have the power to name the successor to Smiddy, in the former he would not. The opinion of the deputy city and county attorney will settle the question.

In the meantime there is a general reticence regarding who is most likely to get Smiddy's job. New names are heard each day as those of candidates for the place, but as to their respective chances nothing is being said by either Mayor Fern or Engineer Whitehouse, and Supervisor Lester Petrie, chairman of the roads committee, says that he will take no part in it. Smiddy believes that it will probably be some time before his successor is agreed upon.

MAN'S BODY, WITH THROAT CUT, IS FOUND NEAR FORT SHAFTER

Police Authorities Rush to Scene of Growsome Discovery in an Effort to Solve Mystery Which May Develop Into a Case of Murder

The decomposed body of a man, who it is now believed may have been a member of the Twenty-fifth Infantry, was discovered this morning by Private Morrow of Co. H, Second Infantry, who with several members of his organization under command of Lieutenant Foster were touring the country in the vicinity of Moanalua polo ground.

Deputy Sheriff and Coroner Charles Rose was notified, and hastened to the scene.

The remains were lying at the bottom of a high cliff. Near the body was a campaign hat, of a style worn by the infantrymen. The body, however, was partially clothed in civilian garb, the coat and trousers being made of a brown cloth and not of a variety worn by enlisted men.

The body had all appearances of having been exposed to the weather for several weeks. The soldiers did not stop to make an examination of the clothing with a view of establishing the identity of the dead man.

A return to Fort Shafter was made for the purpose of notifying the Honolulu police of their gruesome find.

KEALOHA IS DECLARED TO BE GUILTY

Hawaii Supervisor Sentenced to Three Months in Jail
and Appeals Case

[Special Star-Bulletin Wireles]
HILO, July 17.—John Kealohe, supervisor and former road overseer in the North Hilo district, today was found guilty on a grafting charge and sentenced to three months' imprisonment. Kealohe, through his attorney, entered an appeal for a new trial, which will be heard in the near future. In the meantime the convicted man has been released on bonds of $500, the amount scheduled previous to his trial.

Kealohe, yesterday, entered a plea of not guilty to the charge of padding the payroll of the North Hilo district, during the month of June and in face of the searching graft probe then being conducted. Witnesses were called, by the defendant, in an effort to prove that David Matson, whose case was used by the prosecution, had worked early in the morning and during his noon hour, in the employ of the county. The effort, however, failed. Matson was in the employ of a plantation and witnesses failed to show that he had put in sufficient time to be entitled to the 20 days' paycheck of $50, allowed on the payroll.

HOLDINGS OF FRANCE LARGE IN SOUTH SEAS

When France stepped in some weeks ago and formally took possession of Wallis and Futuna Islands, as told in Star-Bulletin yesterday, the act awakened considerable speculation in British circles throughout the South Seas.

The point has been brought out in a Sydney newspaper that "More than half the groups of Oceania first evangelized by British missionaries have fallen into foreign hands."

"The latest instance in which a foreign flag flies where ours was more than once asked for," says the Herald, "is afforded in the annexation by France of the Wallis and Futuna Islands, which make a convenient link

CALDWELL SAYS NO 'SHAKE UP' IN DEPARTMENT

J. W. Caldwell, superintendent of public works, denies the published report of a threatened shake-up in his department.

"One swallow doesn't make a summer, and neither do two," said he. "Just because one man quits or is released from this department is no more indication of a general shake-up than it would be in any private business where an employee chooses to quit his job."

The rumor developed with the news of Frank M. Friesell's resignation, handed in about ten days ago and which took effect Tuesday, July 15. Franz Rieks, an engineer in the waterworks department resigned June 1, or a month and a half ago. Superintendent J. M. Little, of the waterworks department, has been suffering from a nervous breakdown since July 3 and has not been in his office since that time.

Discussing these, Superintendent Caldwell said today: "Rieks and Friesell resigned of their own volition, not at my request. When Mr. Little became ill I advised him to go home and remain there until he recovered, and assured him his job would still be here for him when the sickness had passed. I notified the other members of the waterworks department to the same effect and informed them that no acting superintendent would be appointed, but that each employee would be expected to take care of his work as usual until Mr. Little is able to resume his duties. "I can only reiterate what I said when I took charge of this office: that no general change in the personnel is contemplated, and that I ask and demand loyalty and efficiency to the department. I am requiring no more than any private business concern would ask of its employees."

Latest Chinese War News REPORTS SAY JAPANESE AIDING REBEL TROOPS

Revolutionary Forces Take Nanking and Declare the City Independent

[Special Cable to the Sun Chung Kwok Bo.]

SHANGHAI, China, July 17.—Reports have been received here that a large body of revolutionary troops has entered the city of Nanking, province of Kiangsi, surrounded the governor's office and declared the independence of that city. It is further reported that the rebels were aided in their undertaking by the Japanese government, which furnished them with men, ammunition and money. The arrangements for this assistance, it is said, were made during a recent secret mission of Dr. Sun Yat Sen to Tokyo, at which time he agreed to give over to Japan two provinces, possibly Manchuria and Fokien or Chi Kiang, if the Japanese government would assist him in overthrowing the government of the Kiangsi province.

The city of Nanchang is considered by the revolutionists as being a most important post for their movements against the armies of President Yuan Shih-Kai, and one of the rebel military officers who opposed the declaration to take over the city, was immediately sentenced to death. Already the rebels have taken steps toward organizing a new government for the city, and have appointed former Viceroy Shum, of Canton, as commander-in-chief of the army and Governor Chin as premier of the city. A governor has not as yet been appointed.

GENERAL YIN CHANG.

Member of the old regime and now said to be President Yuan's principal adviser.

CLEAN-UP DAY IS GOOD THING, SAYS TENNEY

"Clean-up Day is a good thing—it has been so in the past," was the comment of E. D. Tenney as the question of whether Honolulu should have such a day was referred to the health committee at the meeting of the trustees of the chamber of commerce yesterday afternoon. The matter came up in a communication from the Oahu Central Improvement Committee.

The treasurer made reports, showing the chamber indebted to the Bank of Honolulu for an overdraft of $483.01. President Bishop remarked that annual dues amounting to $1200 would be due next month. He directed that no more payments be made to the Palama Settlement until the chamber gives a new authorization, the treasurer having stated that he had continued paying the monthly subscription for some months since the year had expired for which it had been authorized.

THE ANNUAL MEETING

NAMES ON PENAL SUMMONS RESEMBLES SOCIAL REGISTER

While Honolulu society saluted forth in force to the Oahu Country Club last evening to attend a social function given as a compliment to officers in the British battle-cruiser New Zealand, a little delegation of police officers, while unbidden to the festivities, took stations along Nuuanu avenue and incidentally took more than passing note of the rate of speed maintained by those who journeyed Paliward in fast-flying automobiles.

Today a sheet of penal summons is under preparation and will be served upon the great and near-great of Honolulu society.

Special Motorcycle Officer Chilton and several assistants made careful note of a large number of machines that visited the well-known fashionable resort. In the course of the evening, the machines owned or driven by the following were placed on the list: G. J. Waller, C. A. Black, Dr. Mitamura, J. Takamoto, H. Castle, James Quinn, E. C. Waterhouse, Ensign Freitas, F. P. Reynolds, — Davis, Rev. J. P. Erdman, C. N. Waller, D. B. Case, — Wilder, Stanley Kennedy, and several others, whose identity has yet to be established.

PINEAPPLE MEN WILL REDUCE PLANTED AREA

Reduction of planted areas may be the remedy the pineapple growers will adopt to meet the crisis of over-production they believe confronts them, according to the action taken by the Pineapple Growers' Association at a protracted meeting yesterday afternoon. Unless this is done the planting schemes under way before the alarm was taken would, it is estimated, give an increase of six hundred thousand cases of the preserved article two years hence. As it is, there is a large increase assured for next year from pine already in course of growth. For the crop of 1915 there is yet time to limit the production, as the planting therefor will be done this year, but not too much time. Plants for the purpose are rapidly maturing and must soon be transplanted.

It was decided at yesterday's meeting to take account of all of the available acreage for the 1915 crop, a committee having been appointed to do this and report at the earliest possible date. The committee consists of James D. Dole, president of the association, ex officio; Fred W. Macfarlane, president of Libby, McNeill & Libby of Honolulu, Ltd.; William L. Gifford, manager of Hawaii Preserving Co., Ltd., and W. P. Thomas, secretary and treasurer of Thomas Pineapple Co., Ltd. It will depend upon the committee's report whether the different planting companies shall reduce their respective areas hitherto set apart for the crop of two years hence. Adding to the difficulty of the problem is the fact that there are many Japanese planters cultivating
